

Coupon Code for the Rocket Write Your Book Workshop

The next Rocket Write Your Book coaching workshop begins on January 17, 2011. Below is your coupon with the code you'll need for signing up.

Why am I requiring a coupon code for this workshop? Well, it's a filter. I want to know that everybody who signs up can read instructions, understand them, and carry them out. So we're starting out with something utterly simple and basic.

Your first assignment, even before the workshop starts, is to print out the coupon, carefully note the code (hint: it's the curved text), and when the time comes to register, you'll need to enter that coupon code in the proper space.

Sounds simple, right? But believe it or not, a few people will forget to enter the code on the order page. And if they do forget, they won't get into the class. I'll simply refund their payment and suggest they try again some other time.

As with any workshop, this one also will include a fair amount of instruction. I'll do my utmost to keep everything simple and straightforward, but you will need to understand it and carry it out. That's why we're beginning right here. Get this first task right, and we'll be off to a great start. And of course, in only six weeks, you'll have your book completely written, converted to PDF format, and ready for you to sell to the world on the Internet.

I'm really looking forward to working with you.

Charles Burke,
Your Rocket Writing Coach